Motor Vehicle Record (MVR) Monitoring

The Insight You Need to Protect Your Critical Assets

Work-related driving exposes companies to risks that can lead to financial burdens, legal liabilities, and damage to reputation. In fact, 2 out of 5 work-related nationwide accidents are car accidents according to the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics. To demonstrate due diligence and mitigate risk, businesses must monitor how safely their employees are driving. This includes confirming that employees who drive for work are appropriately licensed, insured, and trained to limit liability and reputation risks.

What is an MVR?

A Motor Vehicle Record (MVR) includes accident reports, traffic citations, license suspensions and DUI convictions for each driving employee. As part of our Motus Protect solution, Motor Vehicle Records (MVRs) provide business leaders with the data they need to identify and proactively intervene with risky drivers. Organizations can choose to check MVRs annually or monitor MVRs continuously to surface violations faster, improving visibility into their risk exposure.

With MVR Monitoring, Motus admins are automatically notified when a negative event occurs and can view the status and details for each employees at any time.
